Not their week...

Between phone and boat problems, Fergusons have enjoyed better times

BY DAVID A. FARRELL
This is just not the Ed Fergusons' week.

After struggling all week with fielding calls from Budget Rental car patrons because of a mix-up on telephone numbers — the Fergusons have the same number as Budget's New Orleans location — the couple decided on Monday to relax and do a little fishing in the Bay.

Result: they were stranded for almost four hours in the middle of the Bay with a dead motor and an anchor hung on piling.

"I guess me and my husband ought to just go back to Arizona," she said, jokingly.

But the experience in the Bay renewed the Fergusons' faith in today's youth, she said.

"I am diabetic and the way the boat was hung up, we were right out in the sun, and I was getting scared," she said.

But they finally got the attention of two youths practicing for the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club's Junior Lipton Elimination, who alerted the committee boat, driven by Walter Chamberlain, of the Fergusons' plight.

The Fergusons had spent almost four hours, waving a bright orange umbrella and life-jacket, attempting unsuccessfully to get the bridge tender's

Favre beats council to punch over Scafide reappointment

BY DAVID A. FARRELL
Shortly before the Bay St. Louis City Council convened on Tuesday evening, they were served with summonses in a Hancock County Chancery Court suit filed on Tuesday by Mayor Eddie Favre against the council in a dispute over the reappointment of City Attorney John Scafide.

Councilmen had earlier said they planned to enter what they termed a "friendly lawsuit" with the mayor over the dispute, but Favre on Tuesday beat them to the punch.

Favre's suit requested that the court issue a preliminary injunction on Aug. 11 allowing Scafide to continue to serve as city attorney until the court can render a decision on the issue.

Favre's suit claimed "the mayor has the exclusive power to appoint by executive order the attorney for the municipality."

It added, "The council has no authority to reject or confirm such appointments. The council has asserted the right of confirmation in spite of two judicial interpretations of the statute by Courts of general jurisdiction holding that the council in a Mayor-Council form of government has no such authority."

The suit comes after the council on July 6 rejected by a 3-2 vote the mayor's reappointment of Scafide. The council maintains it has the right to accept or reject the mayor's appointments.

In the July 6 vote, Councilmen Tom Favre and Jimmy Rutherford voted to reappoint Scafide. Councilmen James

NAACP head wants thorough investigation of Walker death

BY DAVID A. FARRELL
The head of the Hancock County NAACP, Geraldine Lang, said on Tuesday that she supported a "thorough investigation" into the hanging death of Parchman inmate Cedric Walker, 21, of Bay St. Louis. A Jackson pathologist, Rodrigo Galvez, on Friday ruled that Walker's death was a suicide. Said Lang, "We have recently lost a lot of young people, 47, from jailhouse deaths, and our community is so small that it hurts. I speak for a lot of people when I say we want a thorough investigation and some answers. We'd like to see something done about these tragedies."

Galvez claimed the investigation was thorough and satisfied him that Walker hanged himself. Galvez said Walker's Bay St. Louis artist John McDonald's watercolor entitled "Tradition" is the official poster for the Beach Front Festival that wasn't.

Commissioned by the Bay St. Louis Business Association, McDonald created an interpretation of a drawing done in 1585 by English artist John White depicting fishermen.

"The manner of their fishing" is inscribed above the pastel hued painting which features early fishermen plying their trade.

"The fish smoking in the boat, and the retainer fences in the water depict how fishing was done from the Louisiana coast to the Florida Panhandle 400 years ago," said McDonald.

A high quality poster was to have been produced commemorating the 1993 Beach Front Festival, until its cancellation earlier this week.

Miss Teen Promo!

A cameraman with Madison Square Garden Event Productions of Los Angeles on Tuesday takes shots of outgoing Miss Teen USA Jamie Solinger of Des Moines, Iowa, at Court Street Cuisine, 100 Court St., Bay St. Louis. The spots will be shown during the Miss Teen USA pageant on CBS Aug. 10. Bay St. Louis stands to get some national publicity from the telecast, not only from Tuesday's shot, but also when the Bay St. Louis City Council hosts the Miss Teen contestants on Saturday with a seafood reception. There'll be plenty of Gulf Coast seafood and a band to entertain the guests. (Echo photo by David A. Farrell)

Police identify body found Tuesday as Ola Ladner's

BY LIZ HAAS

The family who has searched for their husband, father and brother for the past two weeks can lay their wondering to rest, but not their loss. The body that was found Tuesday in Harrison County was identified as that of Ola Ladner, 62, of Gulfport.

"The autopsy is mostly completed, but they have not determined the cause of death yet," said Harrison County Sheriff Joe Price.

New Orleans pathologist Paul McClarey, in charge of the autopsy, has identified the body as Ladner's, although it was badly decomposed.

"He concluded that it was Mr. Ladner's body with the help of his wife identifying his clothing, wrist watch and vehicle key found in his clothing," said Price.

The body was found Tuesday on Wolf River Road, 15 miles north of Pass Christian, by residents who detected an odor for several days and went to check it out.

"They found Ladner's body at the edge of the woods in a ditch and reported it," said Price.

Ladner never returned to his Gulfport home after attending a wake at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis July 14.

Ola Ladner, born in 1931, was retired from the Veterans Administration in Gulfport. His wife, Florence, is a nurse at Memorial Hospital. They have two daughters, Karen and Terry Ladner.

He was number 12 of 15 children, including nine boys and six girls. His parents are the late Ola and Azelia Ladner Sr.

An investigation continues by the Sheriff's Office and the Gulfport Police Department.

"We're working around the clock on this case," said Price.

He said the Sheriff's Office is awaiting the final results of the autopsy.

Anyone who saw Ladner the night of his disappearance, July 14, or has any information regarding the case, is urged to call the Harrison County Sheriff's Office at 865-7063 or the Gulfport Police Department at 868-5900.

Diamondhead to get own medical clinic

BY LIZ HAAS
Diamondhead's rapidly growing community has expanded its growth even more with the addition of a medical center, the Hancock Medical Center Diamondhead Clinic, to be opened in January 1994.

A ground breaking ceremony was held Tuesday for the center, to be located on Gex Drive, Jon Ritten, president of the Diamondhead Business and Professional Association welcomed the new business to the Diamondhead business community; that presently has over 50 businesses.

"We are excited to have fine medical care in Diamondhead, and we thank you for having faith and confidence in our community," he said.

Construction of the center is scheduled to begin in a week.

Architect Fred Wagner said the establishment will be a one-story wood framed building with a style to fit in with the architecture present in Diamondhead.

He said the building will have grey brick, similar to that on the hospital.

"It will have five examining rooms, a minor procedures room, a lab, a private office and a records office," said Wagner.

He said the building is being designed so it can be expanded to a later date as more medical services are needed.

Don Henderson, HMC administrator announced Dr. David Roberts will be returning to the area to head the clinic.

Henderson read a letter from Roberts, who could not be present for the ceremony. It read, "I want to congratulate the hospital for providing this service to the Diamondhead area, and I look forward to returning to my homestate of Mississippi."

Roberts is presently working in Tennessee.

Mike Ladner, president of the Board of Supervisors said, "This is an advancement toward medical care that we can be proud of."

"With the growth in the county, we need these types of facilities, and we thank you and wish you well," he said.

Beacon Contractors, Inc. is the general contractor of the project.

Representatives of Hancock Medical Center, the Diamondhead Business and Professional Association, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, U.S. Representative Gene Taylor's office, the Diamondhead Property Owners Association, Hancock Medical Center Board of Trustees and the community were present for the ceremony.

enough people to pull off this large of a festival."

Vernon said the Chamber definitely has hopes for some sort of festival for next year.

"We think we may need to revamp the festival," she said.

Vernon said the festival is not intended to be dropped forever.

"We just want to give everyone a rest because there is only a handful of people who work on it every year, and they only have so much time and energy to devote to their businesses and this," she said.

Cuevas said the festival had grown into something that burned everyone out because it was so labor intensive. "There were just not enough people to do the work that had to be done," she said.

She said this is the busiest time of the year for business owners and their interests were on running their businesses.

"I was disappointed that we didn't pull it off this year and I hope it will come back next year," said Donald Saucier, president of the Hancock County Tourism and Gaming Association.

Saucier said, "The commission is always willing to do anything to promote tourism, but our support for next year is going to depend on if we can get the interest with the majority of businesses in downtown area, and a lot of it."

Judy Lipscomb, president of the Bay Business Association, said there was not enough time or manpower to pull off the festival as a success.

"We were concerned that we did not have enough time to put together something of that magnitude, so we decided it was best to wait and re-group next year with bigger and better offerings," she said.

Lipscomb said, "Given more time, we can pull together something really outstanding."

The Beach Front Festival was conceived 14 years ago by then downtown businessman Pat Murphy as a tool to revitalize business and to attract attention to that area.

Bay Business Association vice president Russell Voorhies said he has already received orders for several of the 50 signed and numbered prints, which were to be sold for $50. In addition, some 250 less expensive posters were to be printed.

In a mutual agreement, the Bay Business Association was to recoup production costs of approximately $1,400 and split profits from subsequent sales with McDonald.

The painting now sits in limbo, unless a business or sponsor is willing to cover printing costs, said Voorhies.

Both McDonald and Voorhies expressed disappointment over the project.

"I feel like John was one of the only ones who did his part for the festival this year," said Voorhies, who can be reached at 467-7705 for additional information.

and fellow boaters' attention.

The two youths — Gilly Chamberlain and Drew Scaife, both 17 — came over to the Ferguson boat along with Walter, and since the committee boat could not get under the bridge to the Fergusons because of the signal mast, the two teens jumped in the water and swam under the bridge with a lifeline to the Ferguson boat.

Mr. Ferguson then cut the rope to the anchor and Chamberlain pulled them in.

"I don't think they were in any real danger, there were no storms brewing, but they could have been out there a long time, if the kids had not spotted them and come to us for help," said Walter Chamberlain.

Said Mrs. Ferguson, "You hear a lot about how bad the youth are today, but believe me, the kids around here are real good. Those two kids were a welcome sight, and they did not hesitate to jump in the water and bring us a line to help us. Neither one of us can swim very well."

"I have no idea what would have happened if it had not been for those two boys. They went out of their way to help us. They're great kids. It is unbelievable that you have people all around you on the beach, in the water and on the bridge, but it is not easy to get people's attention. We were in the middle of the Bay," she added.

Are the Fergusons planning another fishing trip to relax?

"No, I think we will stay home for awhile, and answer the phone," she quipped.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

As one reads the newspaper or views the scenes on television of the floods in several states, it can only bring back horror memories to many of our residents.

Many of those who were here during Hurricane Camille had to swim for their lives as the waters came rolling in from the Gulf.

Of course, there is a difference in the current flooding. Camille came rolling in with a big tidal wave, backed by 200 miles per hour plus winds, yet the waters were gone within a few hours.

The flooding in the central part of America today seems to continue as more water is added by each rain, and there seems to be no cresting of the rivers.

Homes have been covered by water for weeks now, and who knows what people will have left whenever it recedes.

New Orleans got a similar taste with Hurricane Betsy when a large section of the city had water backed up for a week or so after the storm.

During our time of crisis on the Mississippi Coast in 1969, the people from across our nation sent out a helping hand, and all of it was really appreciated.

Now we have many in our nation facing a disaster of an untold magnitude, and help is needed.

I am glad to see there are ways in our area to help our fellow Americans during this crisis.

Standby helpers, who are always ready for such a disaster, such as the Salvation Army and American Red Cross are taking donations to help defray some of their expenses in trying to help feed, clothe, etc., those who rushed from their homes to escape the waters.

Locally, too, the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chevrolet Dealers Association is collecting food stuffs.

In Hancock County, if you want to make a small contribution of staple food items, you can help fill up the pickup truck in the showcase of Mark DeRussy Motors, Highway 90.

Canned foods, cleaning supplies, toiletries, rubber boots, paper towels, gloves, and non-perishable goods are some of the items being collected at Mark DeRussy Motors.

Those whose homes are covered with water do not really know what to expect, as some may go back to nothing.

One thing is for sure, if their homes are standing, they will go back to one big mess. Cleanup will require all types of supplies and many, many hours of hard work.

You can help by making a cash contribution or a staple food donation. Your help is needed.

Don't forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition set for Friday at 7:30 a.m. at the Waveland Resort Inn's Galley Restaurant.

Leslie Staehle, of the Mississippi Attorney General's Office will talk about 'Consumer Fraud.'

As some of you may know, Leslie is from Bay St. Louis and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Staehle.

Staehle has made presentations across the South in her field, so she should be a very interesting speaker.

It looks like every week or so, we hear about someone trying to make a 'fast buck' through some gimmick.

I am hoping there will be a large turnout of chamber members and guests for Friday morning, and I hope to see you there.

McDonald brothers

Prior to and during the early 1900's, beards were popular in Bay St. Louis. The McDonald brothers from left, C.C. Jr., Dave and Jim sported beards along with the majority of male residents as reminders of those days during the Bay St. Louis Centennial celebrations held in 1958. The summer of 1958 in Bay St. Louis was filled with all types of activities such as parades, kangaroo courts, festivals, etc. (Photo courtesy of the McDonald brothers.) The Echo welcomes photos older than 25 years for publication. They will be returned to their owners.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Waveland should annex Bayou Caddy Casino area

Dear Editor,

I'm told that the city administration of Waveland has approved the construction of a sewerage collection line from a point on Beach Boulevard to the sewerage treatment plant, primarily for the purpose of serving the Bayou Caddy Casino (which is not even in the city).

The people of Waveland do not need this line even if someone else pays for it.

The casino needs the line. And Clermont Harbor needs to meet EPA standards in sewerage disposal.

Being able to fulfill a need is a powerful bargaining chip that Waveland holds.

Waveland desperately needs to increase its tax base, and if no vision can exit city hall, it should at least be perceptive enough to copy success.

Look at the revenue pouring into the coffers of Bay St. Louis, all because of the foresight to annex the Bay Cove property in Cedar Point.

Precedence has been set here. So how can the board of supervisors approve of something for Bay St. Louis and not do the same for Waveland under similar conditions?

It's my opinion that nothing should be signed, no money borrowed, no dollar spent, no sewerage pumped until Waveland has annexed the area from just west of Bayou Caddy then northward to the railroad R.O.W., then eastward till it joins with the present city limits.

It is my further opinion that building this line for a user fee is ludicrous in the face of such a glaring opportunity to do better.

Sincerely,
Perry Gibson

Hancock superintendent's actions are self-serving

Dear Editor:

I was greatly dismayed by a recent article in The Sun Herald describing the activities of the Hancock County Superintendent of Schools regarding the development of an alternative schools program.

As a taxpayer, I find it totally improper that public revenues be expended in an effort that is to result in a copyright for a hired consultant.

Anything produced by this contracted work should be made available to any interested school district at no charge. Public education is not in competition with itself.

Also, it is incomprehensible to me as to why the superintendent should be able to keep the details of the program secret from the members of the school board. These are clearly the actions of a public official working to a private agenda.

In order to better understand this situation, I attended the July 26 meeting of the Hancock County School Board. To their credit, the board removed the copyright clause from the contract.

It turned out that this contract had never been submitted to the board for final approval. When questioned, the superintendent put on a hand washing performance that would have made Pontius Pilate jealous. It was not her fault since the previous school board attorney had written the contract. Suddenly, it is "your" board and "your" attorney, as if the superintendent is not part of the team.

Citizens of Hancock County, we have a superintendent who has already proclaimed herself the most important person in the school district. Her actions confirm her belief in that delusion.

Now is the time to insure that she be replaced at the earliest opportunity by a competent, dedicated individual willing to work for the betterment of education rather than narrow self-interest.

Sincerely,
John S. Kolodziej

Contact your Congressman to voice opposition to spending

Dear Editor,

Not one cent — that's how much Clinton's Deficit Reduction Budget will reduce this nation's $4 trillion debt. Not one cent!

The gobbledegook our politicians offer sounds like they're cutting here and there to save money plus raising taxes again to reduce the deficit... so they say. In reality all that's happening is a reduction (perhaps) in next year's overspending of monies the treasury receives.

And this is a repeat of 1990 when Congress and President Bush passed a $500 billion deficit reduction bill... then proceeded to spend much more than they raised in taxes or saved in cuts.

So we must keep paying interest on the $4 trillion plus debt, watch it grow every year until Congress has the guts to cut waste and unnecessary programs.

Only your call or letter to Congress can stop the waste, the entitlements, the subsidies, the grants and loans to "allies" and others. Write them soon and often.

Shoreline residents deserve paved roads

Dear Editor,

On July 6, I attended the Hancock County Board of Supervisors meeting. In hand I had 500 signatures on petition, protesting dangerous road conditions.

On any given day you can see one or two vehicles in a ditch because of slick roads. When we leave our driveways we get stuck. Our cars are torn up from the ruts. The school buses bog down trying to pick up the children. The mail man has trouble trying to deliver mail and the damage to their cars is expensive.

Driving to and from work is a hazard. These roads are below ditch level. When they do get graded, within two days they are in the same condition. We pay taxes just like everyone else and deserve paved roads.

Our tourists and relations come to spend money on the Coast and it is unfair to expect them to drive on these roads.

I have had lots of people ask me what the board said about paving our roads. This is what I was told.

—That 20 years ago people paid $20 down and $20 a month for this land. If that were today, there would be no roads in Shoreline Park. I was told we are lucky to have any kind of roads at all. If they raised taxes they could pave lots of roads.

They should not have to raise taxes. The revenue collected in just 10 months from Casino Magic for the county alone was $763,451. None of this goes to the city. They receive a different amount. The Hancock County budget for 1993 started out at $13,390,805. The 100 million dollar bond for new development has passed.

The county will hold the title to the property, so they will charge a lease fee of 5% of all estimated revenue they would have collected for 5 years. Then it increases to 7% then 10%. Then at the end of 10 years all taxes are due.

Ask anyone, anywhere, anytime what they need and want most from their supervisors. The answer will be paved roads. During election time at every rally that's the first thing all constituents ask the nominees. "That about my road?"

The state and corps of engineers pay 75% of the cost for park improvement and beach improvement.

Please put our roads on the priority list. We are voters and taxpayers.

Humane Society needs volunteers

Dear Editor,

The Hancock County Humane Society is in trouble, and we need the people of Hancock County to come to our rescue.

Very few people come to our meetings, and we have practically no one volunteering to do humane society work.

My phone rings daily with local people asking for financial assistance with pet medical problems. Over the years, thousands and thousands of county citizens have asked for and received help from us.

When we ask if they can help in return by working in our flea market or participating in our programs they can't seem to hang up the phone fast enough.

It seems to me that if someone is asking for help because they don't have a job then they must have a lot of free time on their hands.

What do we need? We need a public relations person: Someone who would be willing to write about our activities, achievements and ambitions and get the articles to the Echo in a timely fashion.

We need a cruelty investigator, or two or three: People who can go out and check when I receive cruelty or abuse complaints. These people need to have a "nice" appearance. They need to be reliable and be able to work with the county animal wardens and Waveland Shelter personnel.

We need someone to form and lead an education committee: People who will go to local schools, libraries and other club meetings and teach humane animal ownership.

We need a special events person who would execute money-making activities on a regular basis.

We need someone to pursue the enactment of humane animal laws in our county. This would be addressing the county supervisors, the Waveland Aldermen and the Bay St. Louis councilmen.

We need people because the animals cannot help themselves. So I ask, if you reading this believe that there should be a humane society to help control animal population by spay-neuter instead of killing unwanted dogs and cats, if you believe that an animal in pain due to an accident or disease should be helped even though the owner has no money, if you believe that a hungry dog or cat should have the right to emergency pet food when their owner is temporarily out of money, or that an abused animal should have someone to stand up for it, and if you believe that the sheer existence of a humane society lifts us above a savage world, please come to our meetings and work with us. There is no substitute for you.

Our next meeting is Sunday, August 15 at 3 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce on Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis. Please come.

Marine lightning protection tips offered

Summer squalls and thunderstorms are a common occurrence during this time of year on the Gulf Coast. Boaters are particularly vulnerable to lightning strikes associated with these summer storms.

The Sea Grant Advisory Service, through the Mississippi State Cooperative Extension Service has several copies of a publication produced by its

County limits trash dumping at Standard

By order of the state Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the county dump at Standard cannot accept specific items.

These items include baby diapers, oil or oil cans, paint cans, household garbage, any type of chemicals, medical supplies, dead animals, fish, whole tires and creosote timbers.

Should EPA or DEQ inspections reveal these items within landfill materials the county could be subject to fines up to $25,000 per day.

Landfill foreman Otis "Curly" Lewis reported residents hide non-acceptable items among acceptable items when delivering trash to the dump.

Lewis also reported the county has authorized refusal of trash from any vehicle without a Hancock license plate.

The landfill is manned by an attendant and a person with out-of-county tagged vehicle must have a permit to dump. Applications to obtain a permit may be made at the north maintenance center (county barn) in Kiln, on Highway 43, west of Highway 603.

A tax receipt or land deed must be presented to prove residency. For additional information call 255-3367.

Aug. 2 deadline set for directory changes

South Central Bell reminds Mississippi Gulf Coast residents that the closing date for making changes, corrections, or additions in the 1993 Mississippi Gulf Coast directory is Aug. 2.

This year's South Central Bell telephone directories will introduce four new ways for residential customers to make their names stand out from the crowd.

Until now, the residential listings in the white pages have offered few possibilities for individualization, unlike the business white pages, which allow color and various sizes of print, as well as extra information.

Effective for directories that "close" after July 12, customers in upcoming directories can have their name, address and phone number appear in bold type, in cursive script, or set off with rules lines above and below.

Again this year, plans are underway to recycle existing telephone directories along the three coastal counties. After the 1993 directories are delivered in October, businesses and residences will be asked to "Pitch In" their books.

The first year to recycle South Central Bell's directories enjoyed a tremendous response thanks to the efforts of individuals, schools and businesses.

Residential customers may contact the Residences Service Center at 557-6500, toll free. Business customers may call in changes to 557-6000, toll free.

School board revises consultant contract

BY LIZ HAAS

The Hancock County School Board held a special meeting Monday to discuss problems with a contract for Jane Borne, consultant for the alternative school.

There were concerns over a sentence in her contract regarding copyright. The contract allowed her to copyright the manual from work on the alternative school, in which she was hired as a consultant for $12,000.

Board president Lynette Necaise voiced disapproval that Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois did not previously bring the contract before the board.

"You approved for me to enter into contract and your board attorney drew up this contract," said Bourgeois.

Necaise said she felt the superintendent should have bought the contract before the school board.

Bourgeois said, "If you would just work with us a little on this fantastic program instead of fighting it every step of the way it would be a lot better for the whole school district. We need to work as a team, not against each other."

The board approved to have the attorney prepare the finished contract, deleting the sentence dealing with copyright, and authorized the attorney to talk to Borne in regard to payment for consultation.

The board went into executive session to discuss issues pertaining to environmental conditions within the district which involve personnel, and a grievance filed by three employees. No action was taken.

The board authorized board attorney Steve Benvenuti to attend a workshop in Jackson on August 6, to be held at the law firm of Brunini, Grantham, Grower and Hewes for a crash course in school law, with cost of $500 and food and mileage.

The board will meet again Monday, August 2, at 5 p.m.

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

HOORAY!

Our resident geese will really have something to honk about when the building starts on Diamondhead's own medical center located on Gex Drive across from the pond where they live, between St. Thomas Church and Woodland Hills nursing facility.

Roberts, who is board certified in family medicine. Besides Roberts, who will be full-time at the clinic, consultants from Hancock hospital's medical staff will be available to visit as needed.

"No time table has been set for future phases which include a diagnostic center and offices for more physicians," Henderson said.

The way, Diamondhead is growing these facilities should come soon. What a great secure feeling to have your doctor and clinic in your own front yard. Diamondhead has really needed this.

HAVE YOU SEEN OUR SIGN?

At the general membership meeting of the Diamondhead Business and Professional Association last Thursday, July 22, Jon Ritten asked this of a nice turnout of members, also reminding all to shop Diamondhead!

Keep our business areas litter free, and Diamondhead clean. A much needed cleanup of the I-10 interchange into Diamondhead is planned for early September.

The date will be announced in this column. It really does help if you would please pick up as you go.

After the business part of the meeting Jon introduced J. P. Compretta, Mississippi state representative from Bay St. Louis, and Glenn Shaeffer with Gold Strike Corp. out of Las Vegas, Nev., both giving a very interesting and informative presentation on the proposed Mississippi landing development at I-10 603/43.

Everything is in place and ready to go, and the consensus of opinion seems to indicate that this beautiful and huge facility on the drawing boards will benefit Diamondhead and its residents. Sounds and looks quite exciting.

ACADEMY HAPPENINGS

Bingo! Yes, Diamondhead Academy is having bingo at a hall on Hwy. 49 in Gulfport daily, except Tuesday, from 7 p.m. until midnight.

It's a lot of hard work for the volunteer callers, etc., but proceeds go to help the school, so this makes it all worthwhile.

Come on down — and Bingo! Please call 255-1784 for information.

NOW YOU KNOW

Well, the suspense is over, the mystery performer has been revealed. The Diamondhead Performing Arts Society is so proud to present Allen Tossaint and Co. in concert.

The date is Sunday, Aug. 15, 7 p.m. at the Diamondhead Country Club. Tickets are going fast, adult, $12.50; child $9.50. No tickets will be sold at the door, so send a SASE to Suite 701, 443 Yacht Club Drive, Diamondhead, Attn. Carol Novak, or call her at 255-6042.

You will be carried away by Mr. T's inimitable talent, a legendary jazz-fest celebrity, renowned composer and musical director, he truly is. Hope to see you there.

ART CLASSES FOR SENIORS

Have you ever longed to have a paint brush in your hand, and a canvas in front of you to express your imagination, beautiful scenery and landscapes, maybe an old house, church or building, the beautiful seashore with birds and shells?

Well, Mr. Carl Baldenhofer, a renowned artist, with his works in 15 states and five foreign countries, will teach you at the Bay St. Louis senior citizens center every Monday and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at a minimal cost.

"He can teach anyone to paint. He's a great teacher, and I've learned more in his class than by previous teachers," said student Joan Morgan. The classes are great for folks who are lonely, bored and looking for something to do because it places your focus on your work, and gives you real pride to create something of your own," she said.

Why not join Angelle, Gladys, Lorraine, Bernie and Lou Ellen from Diamondhead. You'll be so proud you did, and it's fun.

Don't forget Friday mornings in the Bay at the senior citizens

New clinic will be boost to the Diamondhead area center. Bus picks up at 8:30 a.m. at the Diamondhead Dairy Queen and returns there about 1:15. Call 255-1317 for information or transportation.

MY THOUGHTS

So often it is easier to be generous than to accept generosity from others. But the ability to let someone else find joy in our pleasure, is what really takes a generous spirit. For in letting others help us, we are giving up a little of our pride and allowing our human vulnerability to show through. This is true generosity — giving another person the opportunity to touch our lives. Reach out and touch, and have a beautiful week.

SOLAR ECLIPSE

Why would anyone travel hundreds of miles to a remote and inhospitable location to glimpse an event that lasts only a few minutes? The answer may be found in The Great Eclipse, a one-hour documentary that journeys to La Paz, Mexico, to capture a spectacular celestial occurrence — a solar eclipse. The program airs Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. on WYES-TV, Channel 12.

The Great Eclipse follows a spectrum of sky-watchers to La Paz to view the extraordinary solar eclipse of July 11, 1991, the third longest-eclipse of this century and the longest such event for the next 139 years. The site offered the longest period of total eclipse of any place on the globe and the best weather conditions for viewing.

Tips On Writing EFFECTIVE Classified Ads

STICK TO THE FACTS

Prospective buyers need to know details, like the condition of the item for sale, the size, brand name, color and any other relevant information that would help them make a decision.

BE HONEST

Avoid from being unethical, exaggerating or misinforming potential buyers won't help you make a sale, and may only serve to lose a prospective buyers' trust. Even if they come to look at what you have to sell, they'll be less likely to buy the item or trust you once they see they've been misled.

SPELL IT OUT

Abbreviations are not easily understood by many people and may even confuse a reader. It only takes them a second to pass over an ad because it doesn't seem clear. Why let it be yours because you abbreviated a description?

THE BOTTOM LINE

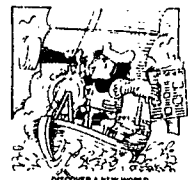

State the price. You'll save yourself the hassle of having to answer calls from prospects who, upon learning the price, are not really interested. Price is the first thing they'll look for when reading your ad, and when prospects know the price, you'll know you have a serious buyer on the line.

BE THERE

I let the best hours to call and make sure you're at home. If you don't list a specific time, you could be flooded with calls any time of the day or night. And when you're not at home to take calls, most likely, they won't call back.

ASK US

If you aren't sure how to word your ad or what features to include, why not ask us? Our professionals on staff know how to create an effective ad that sells, they're always willing to help, and there's no charge!

Kiwanis Club spearheads immunization drive Aug. 5

The Hancock County Kiwanis Club wants to help families prepare for the first day of school. The club is sponsoring "Shots for Tots" Thursday, Aug. 5 from 2-7 p.m.

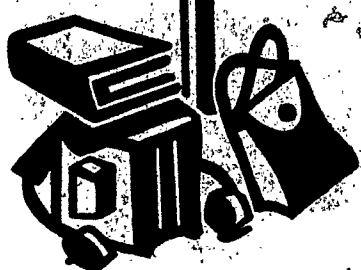

The immunization clinic will be set up at Hancock Health Department located on Longfellow Road at the Human Services Complex. Parents can have their children immunized for polio, measles, mumps, rubella and DTP.

"Immunization of school age children is state law in Mississippi," stated Kathy Fernandez, project chairman.

"We hope parents will take advantage of these services which are offered at a fee of $5 per shot. All children who need immunization will be treated. The health department has assured us that families who are unable to pay will still receive treatment. No one will be turned away. We hope to treat as many children as we can," she said.

Local law enforcement agencies will join club members at the Hancock County Community Center where they will offer finger printing, face painting, free balloons, drinks and cake.

"We want the children to join us for a party after receiving their shots," Fernandez said. Several volunteers from RSVP will help with serving the refreshments.

Also, representatives from the March of Dimes, Hancock Hospital and the Waveland Fire Department will be on hand to help with the festivities.

"We've invited McGruff, the Crime Dog and special guests Raggedy Ann and Any to join us," Fernandez added.

"Our Kiwanis Club plans to make this an annual project. We've received so much support and sincerely thank the Gulf Coast Council of the Telephone Pioneers and Coast Electric Power Association for their help," she stated.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Soft shell crabs are there for the taking ♣ I've just finished "pigging out"—or should I say "crabbing out" on one of my favorite meals, soft shell crabs, utterly delicious down to the last crisp and crunchy flavorful bite.

So quick and easy to cook, this wonderful seasonal delicacy is also there for the taking, along our shores; have you ever gone softshelling? It's lots of fun to scoop up the crabs, taken them home and soon enjoy a tasty meal. And, even if you have to buy them, soft shell crabs are well worthwhile!

as you prefer (I like the full cup)

- 4 Tbsp. butter or margarine
- 2 Tbsp. olive oil
- 4 Tbsp. white wine
- Flour for dredging crabs (1/3 to 1/2 cup)
- White pepper, salt to your taste

Combine the flour, pepper and salt in a shallow plate. Dredge the crabs evenly in the seasoned flour, shaking of the excess. Combine the butter and oil in a heavy skillet over medium to high heat. When the butter begins to foam, add the

I like them the old Southern way, deep-fried with their crunchy cornmeal or flour crust. I like them sauteed in butter and oil, or fried in melted butter. They're also tasty when broiled or grilled. In other words, I like them any way that I can get them!

To deep-fry, clean the crabs and dredge them in flour or corn meal (some cooks dip the crabs into batter also) and cook in hot oil for 2 to 5 minutes, depending upon the size of the crabs, until their coats are brown and crisp. Squeeze a little fresh lemon juice over, and enjoy.

To broil, place 4 inches from the heat and broil for 4 to 5 minutes per side, watching carefully lest they burn. And, however you cook them, don't overcook them. And, don't over-season them, or smother them in heavy seasonings of heavy sauces; let the natural sweet, fresh taste come through.

Here's one of my favorite ways to cook soft shell crabs: SAUTEED SOFT SHELL CRABS PECAN

6 soft shell crabs

1/2 to 1 cup chopped pecans, crabs in a single layer, of course. I use 2 skillet, or cook in batches.

Cook 4 to 5 minutes on each side, depending upon the size, until golden brown. If the crabs feel spongy when pressed lightly, cook a bit more till crisp. Remove from skillet. Pour the wine into the hot pan, and bring to a boil. Scrape those tasty burned bits off the bottom of the skillet, and swirl them around in the wine. Add the pecans and cook for just a couple of minutes. Pour a little of the wine sauce over each crab (6 servings).

I usually add a little chopped parsley and chopped green onions to the wine-pecan sauce. A friend of mine substitutes tarragon or raspberry or other vinegar for the wine; and another friend uses sherry in place of the white wine. It's up to you!

Some years ago I used to fry or saute the crabs in far more generous amounts of butter, but use less butter these days! As most of us do. (Copyright, 1993, Katharine D. M. Caire)

Audubon Zoo to offer free admission for Kool-Aid points

Points can be clipped from Kool-Aid Kool Bursts, Kool-Aid Koolers or any pre-sweetened or unsweetened Kool-Aid mix.

Redemption stations will be set up at the front gate of Audubon Zoo and at the Riverview entrance of the zoo.

Visitors can also experience Dinomania while visiting the zoo. This special exhibit features 20 moving lifelike dinosaurs in an outdoor setting enhanced by extensive landscaping. Admission to Dinomania is $1 for members and $2 for

Boating safety grant applications available

Applications are now being accepted for boating safety project grants to be awarded in early 1994 by the BOAT/U.S. Foundation for Boating Safety. The deadline is Nov. 2.
Since 1989, the Foundation's Grassroots Grants Program has awarded nearly $175,000 to volunteer boating groups and other non-profit organizations to support boating safety projects at the local level.
"We encourage community organizations to submit grant applications for projects reflecting a unique and repeatable way to reach the public with boating safety programs," said BOAT/U.S. Foundation director Jim Ellis.

"For example, the variety of innovative projects we supported this year ranged from billboards promoting personal watercraft safety in Mississippi, to a direct mail boating safety campaign in California, to a program in Maryland that rewards children for wearing their lifejackets."

Organizations wishing to receive a Grassroots Grant application packet should write BOAT/U.S. Foundation, 880 South Pickett Street, Alexandria, VA 22304.
The foundation is a non-profit education and research organization funded by voluntary contributions from boat owners.

Stieffel, Eagan win sailing championship

Special to the Echo
Skipper Rod Stieffel and crew Bubby Eagan teamed their considerable skills and experience to win in convincing fashion the 1993 Flying Scot North American Championship conducted last week at the Pensacola Yacht Club.

Competing in qualification races and then moving into the Championship Division for the finals, the two Bay-Waveland Yacht Club members won every race in the finals and brought home a truck load of trophies.

"Winds for the five-day event were generally medium to heavy, sometimes exceeding 20 knots," said BWYC Commodore Anthony Trapani.

"With only two people on the boat," he continued, "their victory is all the more impressive — those two guys are very strong, very good, and very focused."

"We are very proud of them," said Vice Commodore Van Tanner, "and are pleased to add this accomplishment to the list of national championships won by our members."

"I continue to be amazed at what our small club manages to accomplish on a national basis," said Tanner.

Other BWYC members competing were skipper Charles Merrigan and crew Gilly Chamberlain and skipper Bishop Stieffel with crew Kippy Chamberlain and Scott Raines.

With Merrigan's seventh place finish and Bishop Stieffel's 13th place finish, the BWYC sailors won the trophy for the best performance by three boats from the same fleet.

BWYC selects Junior Lipton Team

Bay-Waveland Yacht Club has selected a team of junior members to compete in the three-race Gulf Yachting Association Junior Lipton Regatta scheduled Aug. 14-15 at the Gulfport Yacht Club.

Selection was by a six-race elimination series over three days beginning this past Saturday.

Skippers on the team are Allen Uram, Gilly Chamberlain and Sanders Kane. Alternate skippers are Chad Renken, Sarah Taylor and Joann Mestayer.

Serving as crew in the elimination series were junior members Mike Benvenuti, Kippy Chamberlain, Peter Martinez, James Wadsworth, Scott Renken, Richard Mestayer, Noel Twigg, Avalyn Taylor, Emily Taylor, Steven Hart, Drew Scaffide, Sara Smolensky and Danielle Bourgeois.

Assisting the race committee was Kay Kennedy. This pool of talent will be available to crew in the Junior Lipton Regatta.

Results of the elimination series:

First, Allen Uram; second,

Gilly Chamberlain; third, Sanders Kane; fourth, Chad Renken, fifth, Sarah Taylor, and sixth, Joan Mestayer.

The Junior Lipton Regatta is the junior championship of the Gulf Yachting Association. The GYA consists of member clubs from western Louisiana to St. Petersburg, Fla.

District Champions

Thunder finishes fifth in state

Special to the Echo
The Bay Thunder Semi-Pro Baseball team, in its first year, ended with a solid performance in the state tournament at Mississippi College.

Bay Thunder ended as Division I runner-up behind the eventual state champion Superior Bolt from Jackson. Superior Bolt defeated the Thunder by scores of 5-1 and 14-8, respectively.

Bay Thunder began the tournament on fire, winning the first two games by the scores of 7-4 and 3-2. Bay Thunder had scored 10 runs on 20 hits and allowing just four earned runs and committing only 2 errors.

"During the third game we fell apart all around," Coach Andy Elkins said. "We didn't concentrate as well as before, and I believe some of the young men were fatigued from the driving back and forth for three days."

Kendall Daniels, who has been a consistent pitcher all summer started the third game and allowed one earned run off two hits and three Thunder errors in four innings. Daniels had a 2-0 record with a 1.16 earned run average before his tournament debut.

Mark Dupuy, a junior from Bay High, came in and shut

Bay Thunder ended the tournament with a 2-2 record after a 14-8 loss on Friday night to Superior Bolt. Superior Bolt opened the game with four runs in the first inning. Bay Thunder came back with one run in the bottom of the first and second innings.

Superior then rallied for eight runs in the third inning off six hits and four walks making the game 12-2. Bay Thunder kept fighting back with a run in the third and fourth innings. Mark Dupuy came on to pitch the last two innings and did another outstanding job by striking out four and allowing one hit.

Low maintenance daylilies can grow even better

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Daylilies are popular, old garden plants. They're so tough they grow with no care at all along roadsides, in ditches and at long forgotten home sites.

When I was a kid in New Jersey, there were single and double, orange daylilies growing along the driveway. When I visited there a few weeks ago, they were still growing and flowering.

I suspect the first daylily I ever bought (back in the '50s) was the cultivar Hyperion. The catalog picture sold me on Hyperion, and I wasn't disappointed.

When I ordered that bright, lemon-yellow daylily it was already 25 years old, developed by F. B. Mead and introduced in 1924.

Today daylilies are one of the most widely supported flowering garden perennials. There are daylily societies in many states and even a national organization, the executive secretary of which lives in Jackson.

Efforts at daylily improvement exceed the imagination since most enthusiasts do a little breeding. The list of named cultivars gets longer every year.

Breeder goals include flower size and substance, plant type, repeat flowering and other characteristics.

I suspect that most popular goals are a pure white daylily and a color that approaches blue. It's kind of like the search for a blue rose and more than likely success will result through gene transfer rather than flower pollination.

At the July meeting of the Jackson Hemerocallis Society, Mary Ann Hatten gave some tips for great daylilies, and I thought I'd pass them along to you.

Daylilies are very forgiving plants that will survive some pretty tough growing conditions, but they do best in a well-drained soil where they receive several hours of sun.

Don't judge a new daylily in the first year that it flowers for you. It takes a year or so for the plants to become established, so wait until the second bloom year to pass judgment.

If a daylily appeared beautiful to you when you decided to grow it it will be beautiful again given time. You may need to move the plant around to find a site it likes.

Daylily flower color is affected by the soil in which the plant grows. (This doesn't mean that a yellow will turn pink or red.) Temperature affects the intensity of color. Colors are more intense when temperatures are cool and may fade with prolonged hot temperatures.

Pick off developing seed pods to direct all plant growth energy to the plant. Volunteer seedlings from seeds that fall to the ground are generally inferior to the parent and can make a daylily bed weedy.

Mulching helps plant growth, but during periods of heavy and extended rains can result in development of rot. Plants that look like they need water may be suffering from crown rot. Lift these plants and remove all evidence of rot.

If any part of the crown is intact it may be possible to save the plant by potting it in a sandy soil and providing extra care.

Sharp builders' sand sprinkled around plants deters slugs. Sand can also be mixed into the soil for improved drainage.

Daylilies need a lot of water when flowering.

When planting daylilies in the hot summer weather, soak the hole with water prior to planting and trim the leaves to reduce the foliar demand for water while the plant is trying to establish its roots.

If you are dabbling in breeding daylilies, don't get caught up with too many seeds and plants. This should first of all be fun.

One tip I'd like to add is that daylily cultivars are not equally vigorous, and it is possible for stronger growing plants to crowd out the less vigorous.

Give your plants enough space to grow and flourish so that the less vigorous are not shaded or crowded out.

Red Cross opens flood relief account

The American Red Cross has opened a Midwest Flood Account at Hancock Bank and is accepting donations to support Red Cross relief efforts in flood-ravaged areas.

The American Red Cross estimates the cost of relief efforts in nine states, including Mississippi, will cost between $15 and $20 million.

"We won't know the full extent of damages until the waters recede," explained Mississippi

Gulf Coast chapter executive Bob Collins. "As of July 26, the Red Cross is sheltering 18,150 families in nine states. More than 85,000 different families have had to spend some time in Red Cross shelters over the past weeks."

Collins said there have been as many as 100 Red Cross shelters open and 130 mobile feeding vans serving flood victims and relief workers. An additional 61 Red Cross service stations are handling communications, logistics and other support services.

In Mississippi 220 people in Vicksburg are being fed and sheltered by the American Red Cross, Collins said.

"The most useful support we can offer right now is cash. There is no waiting, no delay, no delivery or distribution problem, and the relief workers on site know exactly what they need in each community."

Collins said contributions to flood victims can be made directly to the Midwest Flood Account at any Hancock Bank location or can be mailed directly to the American Red Cross, P.O. Box 4514, Biloxi, MS 39535.

Points — Friend or foe on a mortgage loan?

By Janet K. Lukens
Area Consumer Money Management Specialist

Low interest rates and a thriving economy continue to generate activity with new mortgage loans and consumer questions regarding those loans. One of the more common of those questions is "should we pay points?"

In home mortgage terminology, a point is so named because it is one percent of the loan amount. The use of points allows an interest rate for the borrower which is lower than the current market interest rate, yet achieves the same yield for the lender. Paying one point lowers the interest rate from 1/8 to 1/2 of one percent.

There is not one answer to the question of paying points. In order to arrive at the appropriate decision, a number of considerations must be made.

the borrower's main home.
* The amounts must conform to those generally charged in the area.

If the borrower is buying an existing home, the seller may be willing to pay points. If so, the buyer should shop for an interest rate at the maximum amount of points the seller will pay. Additional points can be paid by the borrower to lower monthly payments even more.

If the borrower is considering paying points himself, consideration should be given to the "payback period" and deductibility of the points for income tax purposes.

When are points tax deductible? The following conditions must be met:

* Amounts must be calculated as a percentage of the loan.

* The loan must be secured by

Points may be fully deductible the year in which paid or the borrower may be required to spread the amount over the life of the mortgage.

In order for points to be fully deductible the first year, the loan must be used to buy or improve the main home of the taxpayer.

Loans used solely to refinance an existing loan are not fully deductible in the first year. A second requirement is that the points be paid by the borrower with funds other than those obtained from the lender or mortgage broker.

The payback period is the length of time required for the borrower to recoup the initial cost of points through a reduction in the monthly payment.

In order to compete this amount, the cost of points should be divided by the anticipated monthly savings on principal and interest. The effect of income taxes should be factored into this equation.

For instance, of one point, or $1,000, is paid on a $100,000, 30-year loan to reduce the interest rate from 7 1/4% to 7% %, payments would fall from $699.22 to $682.18, a savings of $17.04. If points must be deducted over the term of the mortgage, the entire cost of the points ($1,000) should be divided by the approximate after-tax savings on the monthly payment (roughly $11.42 using a current tax rate of 28% federal and 5% state). The initial cost is recouped in 7 years.

As is evident, the decision to pay points can be complicated. For more assistance, consult a tax advisor, banker or financial planner.
